1. The Dinamica shipyard at Turmu Severin built its first fishing boat on 9 March 1950.
2. Turmu Severin near the Iron Gate is the port on the Danube with the second largest shipyards. Galati is first. The Turmu Severin yards cover more than 70,000 square meters with three shipways, one of which can hold up to 600-ton ships. There are also casting halls, assembly halls and repair shops. Recently it appears that the shipyards commenced receiving new machines and furnaces. The last addition was an air compressor capable of producing 25 cubic meters per minute. The furnace is a tapering furnace.
